ANNUAL MEETING

Ted Schad New Chairman.

At the annual meeting held at the Moores' on January 28, the former corrupt administration was replaced by a reform ticket headed by Ted Schad. Johnnie Reed, former political boss of the organization, was sentenced to serve an indefinite term as editor of Up Rope as just retribution for his past sins. Retribution for his forthcoming literary sins will probably be decided upon in the very near future. Our congratulations to Ted!

Before being led away kicking and screaming, the former chairman took an opportunity to thank Paul Bradt and Arnold Wexler for their sound advice during his administration (advice they gave freely when asked and never when not asked), Jane Showacre for her good work in arranging evening meetings (a thankless task that she has agreed to continue), and Gerry Morgan, the retiring editor of Up Rope, who has done such an outstanding job for over a year and who rightly feels that he has done his fair share and then some.

One of Ted's first moves on assuming the chairmanship was to issue a schedule for the next few weeks (see below). If we may be excused an editorial comment --- this schedule sure looks good to us. It's nice to see something a little different for a change.

The meeting ended with a showing of John Christian's collection of slides from his recent European trip. Our compliments to John on one of the finest groups of slides we've seen in a long time. Many thanks also to Ray and Susie for their hospitality --- it is hoped that the Moore household will return to normal sometime within the next few weeks.
