Chairman's Corner

When I became chairman of the Mountaineering Section last January, a friend informed me that the chief function of this office was to hold the club together. I laughed and said that I hoped my tenure would accomplish more than just keeping the Section in existence. Accordingly, at our various committee meetings, I proposed and initiated numerous ambitious projects for the Section. Some wondered at the number of undertakings. To those who would listen, I expounded on my "ten percent philosophy of life". In brief, I believe that it is unreasonable to expect more than ten percent of what you ask for in life. Some then accused me of stretching the issue by asking for alot in order to increase the size of my ten percent.
